New Products:

As you all know, technology doesn't stand still and there are some exciting new innovations on the horizon which we look forward to talking about with you in the new year.

Looking back on 2006:

One of the things which has been of special note this year has been the move away from CRT monitors to LCD monitors whose prices have become very reasonable.

Colour laser printers have come into their own and audio visual products like data projectors have become increasingly popular. Even photocopier technology has moved forward as exemplified by Toshiba, also fingerprint technology is a big mover for a variety of purposes, one of which is employee time clocks with its interaction with accounting software.

Finally, wireless technology was also a strong contender for laptops and PDAs and of course SIMDir has also made a substantial impact this year.

For more information about any of these technologies please Send us an Email.
